

Heartland Payment Systems Computer Breach Puts Users of Visa and MasterCard At Risk Nationwide

A computer breach at Heartland Payment Systems has put a large number of credit card account numbers nationwide at risk, including a number of members at First Reliance Federal Credit Union using the First Reliance Federal Credit Union Visa Check Card.

Heartland is continuing to provide data to First Reliance Federal Credit Union on which account numbers were compromised in the incident. If we identify your First Reliance Federal Credit Union card number, your card will be blocked and a new card will be issued. We will also issue you a letter with more details.

First Reliance Federal Credit Union Computers Were Not Compromised
The access did not involve First Reliance Federal Credit Union's computer systems and your personal and account information on file at First Reliance Federal Credit Union was not compromised.

Heartland Payment Systems provides transaction data service for a number of restaurants and retailers in First Reliance Federal Credit Union's market area. The criminals gained access to data on Heartland's systems - not at First Reliance Federal Credit Union.

If you think someone has accessed your First Reliance Federal Credit Union accounts, call us immediately:
